CODE OF HONOR

*As a Student of High Point
High I Stand——*

*For Honesty
In all I do and say;
For Industry
In study, work, and play;
For Purity
In spirit, thought, and deed;
For Courage
To meet life's every need;
For Brotherhood
Of races all combined,
And Love
For God and all mankind.*

THE THEME

We have dedicated our book, the 1950 PEMICAN, to a world of honor. To make our world honorable we must start with ourselves. That is why we have selected as our theme the High Point High School Code of Honor.

As we go forward in the world we are not always with the people next door, but in the next country; not the next town, but the next continent. Our small jobs become larger ones with a place in national affairs. It is there that we will apply the virtues we have used from the beginning. If in our living we use honesty, purity, courage, industry, brotherhood, and love, we can go no higher. With this as our code of life our honorable world is indestructible.

DEDICATED TO

A WORLD

With Honor

We dedicate this 1950 PEMICAN to a world, a brotherhood of honor. To a world, which, though ravaged by war, saddened by tremendous unnecessary loss, torn by economical, political and social differences, has still maintained her honor. To a world, which, in all her conflicts, has united each small part in an effort to establish the universal ideal of honor. Men have mistaken it, debased it, ignored its ambition and principles. But the honor of youth is their strength; thus we, the future builders of the world must uphold it—by our honorable ideas and actions at High Point High School—by our honorable progress and ambition in business and domestic life—and by our honorable efforts and ethics in our own individual affairs. So here, at the beginning of a new half-century, we dedicate this annual, our country, our lives, to the everlasting preservation of Our World Of Honor.

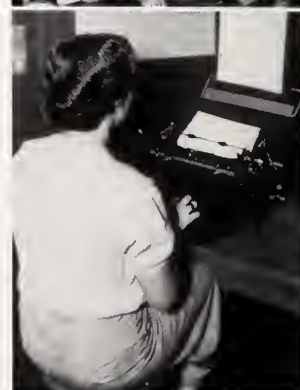

FOREWORD

Realizing that a world without honor is a world shrouded in darkness, we, the staff of the 1950 PEMICAN, present to you, the students of High Point High School, a yearbook dedicated to the fulfilling of our dreams for honor throughout the world. We not only desire to have honor in our own community, but to send the light of honor throughout the entire world. It is for us who are blessed to help those who are torn apart.

With all thought for the future, let us never forget our eventful days in high school, for they have been wonderful, in fact, the happiest we shall ever experience. Our thoughts and actions for this year are here recorded in both words and pictures; may we long remember lest we soon forget.

We have here-to-fore made our school what it is, let us now, as individuals, strive to create for our posterity the kind of world portrayed in our youthful dreams.

to meet Life's every need

In the schools of today are the leaders of tomorrow. Our faculty at H.P.H.S. has realized this, and uncomplaining they have worked with us giving their personal time to our problems, however menial they may have been. We must be ready when the time comes to shift the responsibility of world affairs to our shoulders. We must have help in the long and careful preparation for this time. Unflinchingly our teachers have accepted the challenge and have not once shirked their self-appointed duty. And so we pay tribute to the courage with which our administration meets life's every need.

ADMINISTRATION

ADMINISTRATION FACULTY STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Efficient Administrators Promote Better Organization

All-important in the busy routine of school life is the promotion of personal and efficient guidance of students by our administrators. Their individual interest in students brings about a better-prepared organization; and it is this quality of being keenly aware and concerned that makes the students of our school admire and respect them.

Setting a dignified and fitting example is our prominent Superintendent of City Schools, Mr. Charles F. Carroll. His sincere interest and careful management of school affairs deems him one of the most welcome personalities around H.P.H.S.

Interested in promoting and advancing our secondary education are the school board members. These selected few play an important part in rendering individual service to the worthy projects and programs undertaken by the school.

Mr. Carroll, supervisor, educator, and friend, is always a welcome figure at High Point High School.

These school board members, Mr. R. M. Campbell, Mr. William Tomlinson, Mr. D. A. Rawley, and Mr. J. B. Phillips, donate their valuable time and their full support to educational projects in the city schools.

Mr. D. P. Whitley, our principal, is never too busy to give forth with a friendly smile or advice.

Closest to the hearts of everyone is our own principal, Mr. D. P. Whitley. Nowhere can one find a man so deeply attentive to the welfare of the students. His complete and whole-hearted concern lies in his power and ability to serve the school and faculty. In every function of school life, he gives of his thoughtful advice and displays his aptitude for guidance. His opinions and considerations are well-respected and admired, for this is a man who excels in the tactful supervision of student problems.

Winning the respect and friendship of countless students are Miss Mendenhall, dean of girls, and Mr. Nile F. Hunt, dean of boys. Giving of their time and selves as general counselors and advising frequently many extra activities, they have willingly offered their confidence to students who find, during the course of a year, they need advice or desire consultation with persons who know and understand their problems. With thought and patience, they have found there is a lot of "give and take" in the important factor of coöperation. Such capable advisers as these only tend to add to the spirit of closer student-faculty relationship.

Always ready with friendly advice and guidance Miss Anna Mendenhall, counselor of girls, and Mr. Nile Hunt, counselor of boys, are essential in our school. Without their skillful supervision many activities could not be accomplished.

Faculty Members Assist in Activities and Curricula

Mrs. Jackson, the sparkplug of the office force is answering the telephone, with her usual cheery "good morning, Senior High School!"

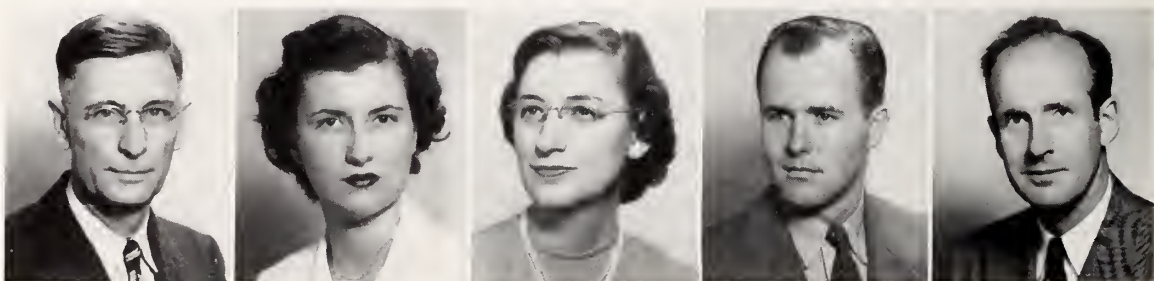

Adding much warmth and pleasantness to H.P.H.S. is our own Mrs. Jackson, school secretary. With an ever-present smile and a contagious good nature, she efficiently manages the general office. Lending assistance in many ways are the girls who help each period with the endless filing and issuance of books.

Also indispensable is the competent Mrs. Teague, office assistant, who, besides supplying information to students and visitors, helps "Johnsie" with the many "extras" pertaining to school business.

But in the field of service none rank higher at our school than our faculty. Meeting six classes a day, supervising and acting as advisers in many extra-curricular activities, they tirelessly serve the students and school, giving of their limited "after hour" time and sacrificing many extra pleasures in order that their pupils may receive the full benefit of their knowledge. With such a faculty, as this, we may rest assured that our administration is the best to be had anywhere.

Parliamentary Experience Gained In SCA Projects

Training found through student council activities can hardly be surpassed by any other organization. Through all channels of preparation, the student government makes partakers aware of the significance of reasoning and sensible judgment, so vitally necessary not only in parliamentary procedure, but in all phases of everyday living.

Reaping full benefits of the knowledge as to how to lead in student government activities are the officers of the 1950 council: Doris Craven, president; Jerry Paschal, vice-president; Gladys Hall, secretary; and Martha Stone, treasurer. Serving as the nucleus of relationship between faculty and student body, they stated their primary purposes which were to establish the spirit of leadership and "follower-ship" in the daily school routines, and to enliven the students' interest in the workings of their council.

With such aims in mind, they plunged headlong into the many tasks facing them. Several members attended state and interstate conventions, where they discovered new ideas for building the most profitable student government. Each Wednesday the lower house met to propose changes or to offer suggestions for future projects.

Plans for the annual Social Standards Conference, this year named "Evaluation Week," went under way soon after Christmas. The conference was held for a week, February 6 to 10, rendering faculty and students a great service. The daily panels aided in giving these students a broader view of their tentative field of work.

Martha Stone handled finances with help from her committee very capably. In early spring, the Talent Show, "The Pearls of Pauline," sponsored by the student council, succeeded in replenishing the treasury. Also, several other club productions raised funds to be used by the council in various fields.

Jerry Paschal, our busy vice-president, gives us some of his time, while he relaxes from his many student government activities.

in all I do and say

In our classrooms, we, the students of H.P.H.S., formed our characters. There we experienced a new feeling—a feeling of responsibility and trust. We learned the meaning of true honesty through the faith placed in us. We could not commit a dishonorable deed for we were a part of a great institution. If we crumbled in our duty we would break the strength of this fortress.

We realized for the first time that we counted as much as the next person, and we learned the meaning of self-honor. As each of us worked putting forth undiscovered effort, we were gradually raising our standards and in this way the high standards of our world.

The All-Powerful Seniors Attain Highest Glory

Officers of the senior class, Fred Farmer, president; Ann Renfrow, secretary; Pat Blair, vice-president; and Nancy Jean Monroe, treasurer; take heed as Miss Ruth Goodman smilingly gives them advice on how to manage this year's outstanding group.

With high hopes of achieving their most successful year the 1950 senior class, following a hotly-contested campaign, elected Fred Farmer to lead them. Vice-president, Pat Blair; secretary, Ann Renfrow; and treasurer, Nancy Jean Monroe; completed the slate of officers.

Progressing with vivacious spirit, they followed with elections of senior superlatives and class mascots. The class proceeded through the year, stopping midway to award top honors to seventeen seniors with an individual sketch of each in the High School Register. Affording stimulating entertainment, the senior play, Dear Ruth, directed by class adviser, Miss Goodman, was presented in early spring. Highlighting the year was the recognition of Senior Day and the eagerly anticipated Junior-Senior prom. Thus, closing an eventful year and years, the resolute seniors settled down to prepare for the last of their high school activities—Graduation.

Potential Leaders Ride To Success

It took Albert Hale, president; Sam Gibson, vice-president; Frances Mull, secretary; Tommy York, treasurer; Gladys Hall and Cyrus Brooks, upper house representatives; Miss Elizabeth Lindsay, adviser; and 335 students, junior class members, to plan and carry out an eventful year.

In the fall came the class elections with keen competition and a sizzling campaign. Every student heartily supported his choice candidate, and each nominee was grateful to his booster but did not dare to hope.

January brought the presentation of the junior play, The Saturday Evening Ghost, under the direction of Miss Amy Franklin. Students earnestly tried out for their chosen parts, and the selected actors worked tirelessly memorizing their lines. On the night of the performance any doubts or fears the players might have had were completely banished. The audience roared as the comedy came into full swing. After the curtains closed for the last time, the spectators still chuckled to themselves as they filed out of the auditorium. Juniors not in the play, formed committees necessary to its success.

With the arrival of spring and the end of the school year in sight, bustling groups of students putting their heads together planned the most important of all socials at senior high school—the Junior-Senior prom. Contributing their time, their ideas, and themselves, the juniors worked enthusiastically with the seniors for the success of this wonderful event.

As this class carried out its duties, it was conscientiously preparing to take over the reins next year. With their past experience and an optimistic outlook the 1950 junior class is now well able to become the highest and most important class in school.

Sophomores Reveal Their Influence and Strength

"The strongest and most influential class in school" that is how the sophomores, 418 students of High Point Senior High, feel about themselves.

As freshmen they had been divided with the younger portion remaining at Junior High. That, however, did not hinder them; for, reunited, the group blended into a hard working team, coming through with a victorious year. Coaching the class was Mrs. Flossie Shaw, adviser.

October brought to the stage trembling students delivering speeches and skits as they campaigned for class election. Soon after voting the results were announced, and chosen to lead the group were Frances Motsinger, president; Betsey Davis, vice-president; Barry Ruth, secretary; Sonny Sorrell, treasurer; and upper house representatives, Nancy Bright and Al Roach.

The main financial expenditures, such as the prom and class pictures in the PEMICAN were taken care of by the proceeds from the Curtis Publishing Company magazine subscription sale. Stepping ahead of her friends and classmates Betsey Davis walked off with the honors and applause as high salesman. In recognition of her achievement the class presented her with an Elgin watch.

The shining highlight of the year, the 1950 Freshmen-Sophomore prom, "just had to be the best ever given." Excitement prevailed as the sophomores, joining hands with the frosh, formed the necessary committees, worked in and out of school and did their best to make it a prom to remember.

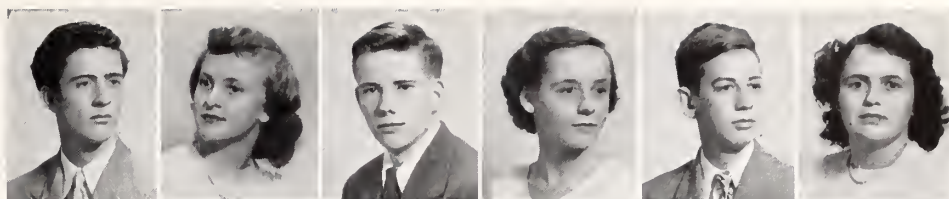

As these 1950 sophomores become the 1951 juniors, they can indeed look back with pride and satisfaction on a well-spent, triumphant year.

The beginning of the school year, 1949-1950, initiated a new group of eager, expectant freshmen who started off their class activities with competence and efficient organization. First on the agenda was the election of class officers. Guided by class adviser, Mr. Lowder, the 250 freshmen joined together in giving skits and hearing their candidates' speeches. The result of final elections showed that president, Buddy Bullock; vice-president, Margaret Brooks; secretary, Herman Bunch; and treasurer, Harold Blizzard, would carry the class through an eventful year. Barbara Priddy and Donnie Boone, upper house representatives, completed the slate of class officers.

The first big class project was the subscription sale of the Curtis Publishing Company magazines. Participation was good, and the class raised $192.00, to be used for the Freshman-Sophomore prom and class pictures in the PEMICAN. High salesman was Peggy Tobias, who was awarded a Philco radio.

As fall faded into winter, the class activities became more limited, but it met frequently for discussions of class problems and actions. Having learned the "do's and don'ts" of the school, the freshmen took part with ease and interest in many school programs.

With the coming of spring, the old enthusiasm arose again over the biggest event of their school year—the Freshman-Sophomore prom. Committees were chosen, chairmen appointed, and the participation and anticipation combined to produce a gala night of fun and dancing.

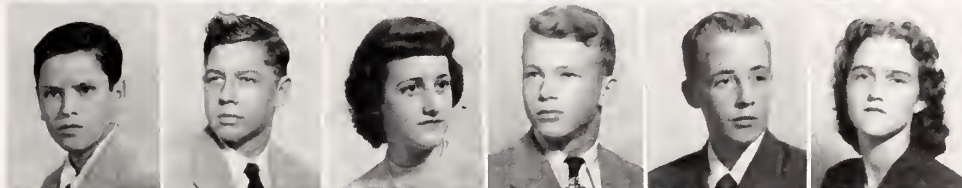

Thus, having worked with able and alert leaders and willing, enthusiastic followers, the 1950 freshman class proved to all just what they were—full-fledged members of High Point High School.

in spirit, thought, and deed

Striding to the center of the football field or the basketball court our players shook hands warmly and sincerely, giving a friendly smile to their opponents. Then the whistle blew, and the game had begun. All through the game our team played fairly, thinking, speaking, and acting only for the good of the game. From the sidelines we cheered them on, and we always won regardless of the score.

Through these experiences we unconsciously prepared for another game, the most important of all—life. There, if we play fairly, if we strive for purity in word, and deed, we shall be invincible.

Spirited Bison Squad Combat Opposing Teams

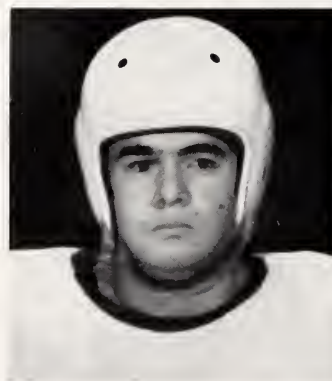

Although the Black Bison of 1949 failed to chalk up an impressive slate of victories, in good sportsmanship and clean football they were not surpassed. Handicapped by injuries and loss of experienced varsity material, the Bison dropped seven, while tying one and rolling out two conference victories.

Opening their season in a road game with a much improved Reidsville eleven, the Bison unleashed a powerful scoring attack with Fred Farmer and Ken Yarborough snatching Paschal's passes in pay dirt to set up the Bison score. However, in the second half the Lions bounced back with a sustained drive, eeking out a 20-19 upset over the Pointers.

Despite the disability of stellar backs Charlie Bryant and Donald Brown from injuries, the Bison successfully opened their loop season on the home field with Gastonia. Paced by Bobby Joe Mickey and Jerry Paschal, the Bison downed the Green Wave 7-6 in a rain-marred contest.

Then, journeying to Durham, the H. P. grid-men were handed their most severe defeat, 23-7, in spite of stubborn resistance. Mickey scored late in the fourth for the lone Bison tally.

Back at home, Coach Simeon's hard-fighting eleven clashed head-on with Burlington's highly-tooted Bulldogs in their second loop en-

Back at home, the Simeon men revealed their true form, pulling one of the most startling upsets in the state in a conference clash with the high-riding Salisbury Yellow Jackets. Paced by Jarrett and Mickey, the locals crushed the hapless stingers by the astounding score of 26-0.

In Charlotte's Memorial Stadium the next week, the Bison supporters were heartened by Mickey's first period tally, but their spirits were dampened by two third-quarter Wildcat touchdowns. Final score, Charlotte 19, High Point 6.

All but buried in mud, the locals dropped a heartbreaking homecoming encounter with the Maroon Devils of Asheville. Led by Jarrett and Paschal, the Pointers matched 12 against the Maroon's 18.

Meeting the arch-rival Greensboro Whirlies, the Bison successfully resisted scoring attempts until late in the third period. Pacing High Though failing to win honors as a team, the 1949 edition of the High Point Black Bison received high individual honors. As a reward for his tireless and persevering efforts to further better interscholastic football, Coach Simeon was named head coach of the North Carolina Shrine Bowl team, which triumphed over a helpless South Carolina aggregation, 20-7.

Also receiving honors were guards Bobby Grady and Harlan Burton, who were named to the Optimist Bowl squad, and co-captains Ken Yarborough and Bobby Joe Mickey, who participated in the Shrine Bowl classic in Charlotte.

State AA Champs Again

Displaying fine teamwork and precision throughout the season, the 1950 edition of the High Point Black Bison battled their way through another successful year, emerging as State Champions for the second time in three years.

Led by Co-captains Jack Powell and Charlie Bryant, the Bison, surprising even the most optimistic, completed the season with 21 victories in 26 starts. Opening the season on the home floor in the new Class AA Pre-season Tournament, the High Pointers romped easily over Fayetteville, Durham, and Wilmington to take the pre-season crown.

In their first regular season loop encounter, the Bison toppled Gastonia, 53-34, only to fall prey to a powerful scoring attack by Carolina Freshmen, 31-54. Bouncing back into their winning form, Coach Simeon's charges rolled over hapless Charlotte, 53-30, then crushed Asheville's Maroons for their year's biggest score, 65-38.

Gastonia again fell prey to the High Pointers, 50-31, followed closely by Asheville on the home floor. Journeying to Salisbury, the Bison all but trampled the Yellow-Jackets, 59-47. At Greensboro, however, the locals fell before a determined Whirlie five, 16-26. The next night, the Bison retaliated with a resounding rout of the Jefferson of Roanoke aggregation, 40-24. The Bulldogs of Burlington were the next victims, 46-34, followed by a one-point conquest of Charlotte, 41-40. Journeying to Victorious in a return bout with Salisbury, the Bison again met Greensboro, battling their traditional rivals to a hard-earned victory, 34-31. Finishing the regular season in a return engagement with R. J. Reynolds, the Pointers routed the Demons, 62-36.

In the North Carolina AA tourney, the Bison met Raleigh in the quarter-finals, coming up from behind to win, 56-46. The semi-finals found the Pointers paired with Burlington, winning again, 30-25. Meeting Durham in the finals, the Bison unleashed a powerful attack to take the Championship Crown, 63-48.

Individually, All-State Jack Powell and Ken Yarborough topped the scoring column, while Charlie Bryant, Jerry Paschal, and Frank Hassell were the outstanding defensive stars.

The 1950 Black Bison wrestling team, under the direction of Coach William J. Gibson, came through a winning season with another state championship, taking five victories in seven matches.

In the initial match, Jefferson of Roanoke fell to the locals, 22-19. Romping over Davidson Frosh, 21-10, the Bison matmen took their first defeat at the hands of the Carolina Frosh, 21-13. Hustling back into action, the Pointers liquidated Greensboro, 38-10, and in a return match, Davidson Frosh, 21-11. Tasting defeat for the second time, the Bison fell before Roanoke, 19-16. Clinching the championship, the locals defeated Greensboro, 28-10.

Blue'n White Fight! Fight!

A flash of blue and white, a clap of hands, and the familiar "Let's hear that yell!" started off another season of pep for the H.P.H.S. cheerleaders. Inventing new cheers, and rousing the enthusiasm of the crowd with the old ones, they followed a spirited schedule of football and basketball games, leading the excited fans in the favorite "Blue and white, fight, fight!"

Elected the year before, the eight rooters strove for perfection as they diligently practiced for this season's work under Miss Ann Upchurch.

Throughout the year, they led the cheers and brought the spirit to homecoming, pep rallies, and dances. On Simeon's invitation as Shrine Bowl coach, the cheerleaders were in turn chosen and they cheered the N. C. all-star team to victory.

Basketball brought their cheering to a close and they gave their best to this remaining sport.

Boys Learn Rules of Athletic Participation

It's a "one-two-three" as Kenneth Frye leads his gym class in calisthenics.

Laughs and shouts from the boys' locker room indicated that another gym class was in session. With sports in their blood the boys dressed quickly, impatient to be out on the field for tag football or baseball or up in the gym for basketball, wrestling, or volleyball.

Before any games began they were quickly whipped into shape with a "one, two, three, four" during their calisthenics. Afterwards they divided into teams putting their hearts into the sport.

The few not interested in these major sports chose partners for tennis, ping pong, or horse-shoes. All the boys learned some of the fine points of their favorite sport under the careful direction of coaches Tony Simeon, Adolph J. Honeycutt, and Bert Ishee. With the sound of the warning buzzer they rushed down for a quick shower and prepared for their next class.

When the weather prohibited out-of-door gymnastics, the boys alternated with the girls in using the gym. During the girls possession, the boys went to classrooms where they learned vital factors in first aid or fine points, clever techniques, and important plays in the many sports.

This boy's gym class remembers the age old adage of "practice makes perfect" as they try their luck under the basket.

Ann Upchurch's Belles

The sound of the bell each period announced gym class to many freshmen and sophomore girls. Rushing down to the locker room they quickly donned their gym clothes and prepared for play. Weather permitting they gathered up equipment and took it outside for soccer, tennis, or archery. After a few brief exercises the girls were warmed up and ready to begin. All activities were carried out under the skillful direction of their coach, Miss Ann Upchurch.

With the approaching chilly winds of winter the groups were forced inside where alternating with the boys in the use of the gym they learned the arts of first aid, sharpened their aim in basketball, volleyball, fieldball, and ring tennis, and discovered new steps in ball-room and square dancing.

As the warm sun returned, Miss Upchurch brought her girls outside once more for softball, their last sport of the year; but as was always the case the bell rang too soon.

Diamond Cutters

Lack of experience and endless days of rain cost the 1949 Black Bison baseball team a severe setback, but they came through the season with three wins and seven losses. In charge of coaching was Carroll Bowen.

Facing the top teams of the state, the diamond cutters picked their men, relying on the veterans to hold the opposition at bay.

Donning the catcher's garb were expert alternate receivers Leo Delappe and Perry Jones. Hurlers Jack Powell, Jerry Paschal, and Jim "Lefty" Searce held their own at the plate and exhibited some creditable pitching. The infield was in the capable hands of Charlie Bryant, Joe Mickey, Rudy Upton, Don Harrison, and Leroy Land. Heavy slugging by Charlie Bryant, Rudy Upton, Bill Craig, and Winston's catcher, Ed Morris, crouches at the plate while Leroy Land follows through.

Jim Jarrett racked up the runs. Those high flies to the outfield were taken in by Jarrett, Upton, and Craig.

Decided improvement spurred the team on to the next season when they intended to cop the championship and put down the past year's stiff competition. With some experienced boys on hand, they look forward to a smashing victory over all.

Flying Feet Speed on the Cinder Circuit

Setting several records, introducing a new meet, and walking off with the western conference championship were the high spots of the 1949 Bison track team this season.

The cindermen were edged out of a win by Charlotte in the Queen City Relays, but sprinters Clyde Garrison and Charlie Jones broke their own records in the 880 and the 100-220 respectively.

Winning by a nice margin, the speedsters took the western conference crown, with Garrison again topping his record and Illard Yarborough scoring a record in the high jump.

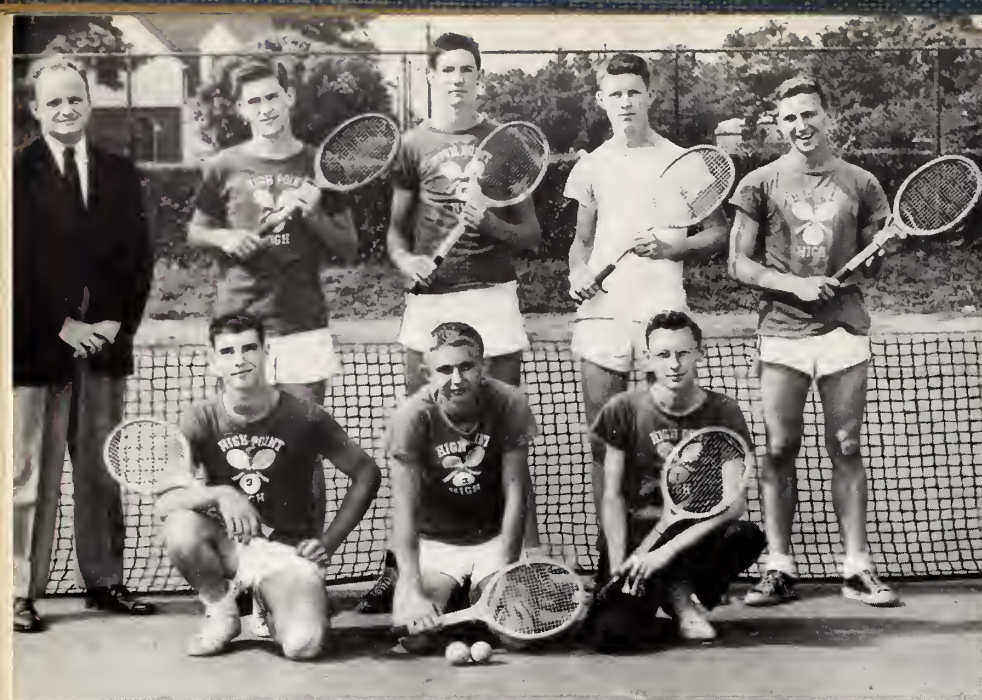

The High Point Invitational was won by Durham with the locals gaining a second place. In the state meet, Jones copped the 220, Yarborough snatched honors in javelin, and Garrison set a record in the 880. Durham won the meet with Charlotte tying up second place.

Black Bison Courtiers

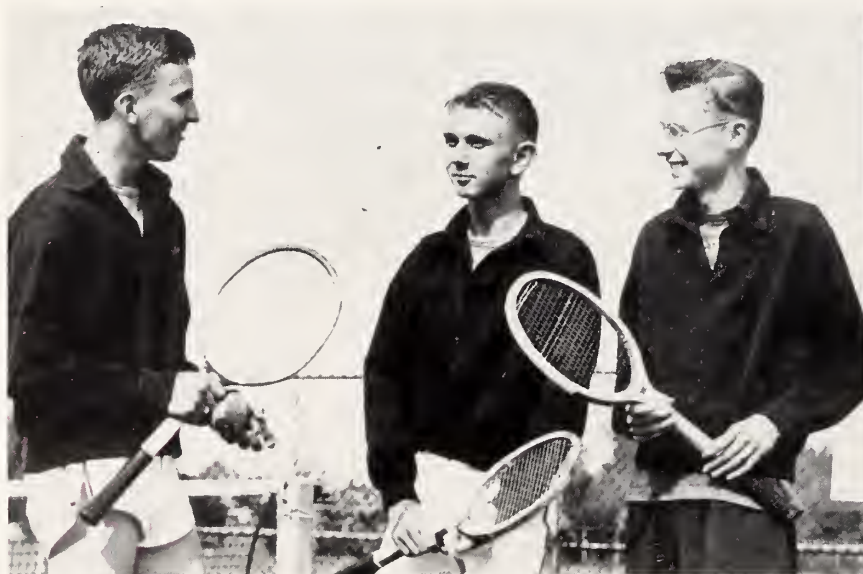

In spite of steady drilling on the weak spots and the skillful direction from coach Adolph J. Honeycutt, the 1949 Black Bison tennis team suffered a losing and disappointing season.

On the scheduled slate of games came two matches each with R. J. Reynolds, Hanes, Greensboro, Charlotte, and Davidson Frosh.

The state championship contest was held at Goldsboro. High Point entries Clyde Baxter and Dick Boyles matched for the doubles bout, and Rolph Albert contested for the singles. Final victories fell to Charlotte holding the singles crown and Goldsboro copping the doubles.

Undaunted by their 1949 season, the racketeers began their spring practice, determined to top last year's losses with a score of victories. Members of the squad were Ralph Brown, Dick Boyles, Clyde Baxter, Rolph Albert, Yates Adams, Bob Bundy, and Harold Gibhardt.

Linksmen Recapture N. C. State Championship

Paced by lettermen Bobby Padgett and Gene Bouldin, the High Point High School golf team won for the second consecutive year the North Carolina State Championship. Held at the Emerywood Country Club, these aspiring "performers" captured both the individual and team first honors. Padgett led the locals with a 72-76, and Bouldin scored a close 81-87 to cop the championship title with a team score of 633 strokes.

With teammates Walter Travis and Henry Weaver as co-golfers, the squad teed off in scheduled matches with Greensboro, R. J. Reynolds, Reidsville, and Davidson Frosh. Snatching both games from the locals, Davidson walked off with two wins and R. J. Reynolds managed one victory, losing the other in a return match. In retaliation, the Bison golfers scored dual wins over Reidsville and arch-rival Greensboro, racking up a creditable record of eight games, five wins, three losses.

With a "nose for news," a flair for originality, and an eye for personalities, the 1949-1950 Pointer staff organized to begin immediately the job of putting out every three weeks an interesting, popular school newspaper. Editor, Carolyn Andrews; adviser, Miss Eleanor Young; and business manager, Nancy Perryman attended the North Carolina Press Institute at Chapel Hill in the early fall. The ideas and suggestions they received there helped them to greatly improve the make-up of their paper.

After a six weeks course in journalism, the staff prepared to start on the first edition of the paper, giving the new reporters ample opportunity to "learn the trade." Editor, Carolyn Andrews and associate editor, Marty Burton passed the knowledge they possessed

Carrying the financial load were adviser, Mrs. Walcen, and business manager, Nancy Perryman. A carefully selected staff went out into the industrial sections of the city and faithfully solicited the necessary ads. The Pointer skit also helped in drawing publicity and obtaining subscriptions, and the money received from this advertising went for its publication.

Followers of the Keystone and the Flaming Torch

Following a service marked with beauty and simplicity, twelve seniors were inducted into the 1950 chapter of the National Honor Society.

Tommie Lentz, president presided over the impressive ceremony. After the traditional tapping, the inductees took their vows and received their pins—the keystone, representing the high ideals of the society; and the flaming torch, signifying their purpose to follow the light of truth. The four principles of the society—Character, Leadership, Scholarship, and Service—were personified by four veteran members, climaxing one of the most beautiful occasions of the year.

Having received one of the highest honors paid to students, the old and new members combined with determination to match the successes of former years. Club officers, vice-president, Mary Lou Dillon; secretary, Suzanne Slate; treasurer, Margaret Stamey; and adviser, Mrs. Rogers, provided president Tommie Lentz with suggestions for the year's work. clippings of school events was handled very capably by Gordie Maxwell.

The first project was the sale of stationery to students and general public. With hearty co-operation, they achieved the sales with good results and a considerable profit in the treasury. Later in the year, the members sold personal cards to the prospective graduates of the class.

Joining forces, the Honor Society and the Beta Club contributed their services to another function of school life by sponsoring College Day in the fall.

The spring induction was the remaining big event of the year. Following another memorable ceremony, five per cent of the junior class were tapped to carry on the coming year's work. Highlighting the program was the annual presentation of the Honor Society Service Award to that student who best served his school and classmates. Excelling in the qualifications was winner, Doris Craven.

Serving as an incentive to lower classmen to keep up their scholastic average is the National Beta Club. All juniors whose grades average 92 and seniors whose grades average 90 are eligible for membership.

Achievement in tasks undertaken, leadership in home and school, and outstanding character at all times—these three virtues brought fifty new members into the Beta Club on November 22, 1949, in a simple but dignified ceremony conducted by Bob Fountain, president. The organization combined with the National Honor Society to present College Day to the students who were planning to attend college. Representatives from well-known schools and universities both near and far came to answer any question pupils might have concerning requirements for entrance, credits, subjects, and even the choice of a college. It was a very profitable and enjoyable day.

On February 16th, the Beta Club presented Mr. John Sloan and his liquid air program to the student body. Everyone showed amusement and interest as Mr. Sloan displayed the liquefaction of air and its forms.

Along with the March winds, the National Beta Club convention blew into Raleigh. There delegates met from all over the state to make friends, talk over difficulties, and trade solutions. Local representatives came back to their High Point chapter with new ideas and immediately set to work to better their own organization in 1949-1950.

Always striving to promote better speech and expression was the lively Masque and Gavel Club. This year was a special one for the organization for it marked the tenth anniversary of the National Masque and Gavel Club. As one of the first schools to become a charter member, the local unit each year has strived to better the group until now it ranks among the highest and most active in the nation.

With the idea of this special occasion in mind a suitable induction at which forty students were taken in was planned by the officers: Patricia Johnson, president; Margaret Stamey, vice-president; Peggy Clark, secretary; Rebecca Johnson, treasurer; Bill Craig, sergeant-at-arms; and their adviser, Miss Ruth Goodman.

Closely allied with the school radio station WHPS the Masque and Gavel sponsored the radio workshop for six weeks. When it later became school-wide, they served as leaders, giving aid to the many beginners. At these classes students learned about many of the different phases of broadcasting such as script-writing, acting, announcing, and engineering.

During the year many awards for recognition by the national chapter were offered. They were met by eager and earnest participants working feverishly—some triumphant and happy, others unsuccessful and disappointed, but all profiting by their experience. Chapter Star Award and National Star Award were presented this year for the first time.

In order to aid the student council financially, the organization worked energetically producing two one-act comedies for the entire student body. The plays were both great successes with the audience roaring at the amusing incidents as the plots unfolded.

Concluding a prosperous and active year, the club looks back on their local Masque and Gavel tenth anniversary with pride and satisfaction of achievement.

High Point Hi Keymen

Met by gales of laughter a bystander might easily have turned to see a group of blind-folded boys on hands and knees crawling down Main Street covered with rotten eggs or dead fish. Nodding with understanding the spectator might have moved on realizing that once again it was time for Key Club initiation.

These tortured souls were not to be pitied, however, for they were entering one of the most respected organizations in senior high school. Each new member promised to faithfully carry out the purposes which are to serve the school and community, to develop in their members constructive leadership, and to provide for them more experience in living and working together.

Every Thursday night at 6:30 sharp the boys met at the Asia Restaurant for dinner and their business meeting.

Deserving their reputation of getting things done the group started to work immediately with the election of their officers. Bill McGuinn, president; Max Williams, vice-president; and Johnny Bell, secretary-treasurer; talked with Mr. Ishee, their adviser, and Mr. Whitley, their principal, and planned projects.

With the beginning of school the club took the responsibility of raising and lowering the flag. Next they began the book which so many high schoolers rely on, the High School Directory. After completion each student and teacher received a copy.

One of their most worthy projects is their presentation of a four-year scholarship of $800 to some student in the school. Most all their money is obtained from their Christmas sale of trees and decorations and from ads for the directory.

Well aware that no play is no fun, the club had their share of socials starting in November with a hayride. A Christmas dance brightened December; and beginning the 1950 year with a bang was their New Year's Eve party. May brought their annual Mother's Day banquet at which the boys entertained their best girls.

Winding up another successful year, these keymen of H.P.H.S. placed it on the shelf with their others and moved into the future.

Members of the Key Club, Bill McGuinn and C. L. Corn go about their daily duty of raising the flag. This is one of their numerous services to the school.

Fun Loving Y-Teens Form a Live Wire Organization

Y-Teen club presidents, Tommie Lu Young, Vivian Miller, and Billie Ruth Pilcher, talk over recent activities of their respective clubs.

Seventy-seven girls make up the senior high Y-Teens, a live wire organization with parties, programs, suppers, and high spot, the state convention.

In September the clubs met to organize. Elected to preside for the senior high groups were Tommie Lu Young, senior president; Vivian Miller, junior president; and Billie Jean Pilcher, sophomore president.

Excitement was in the air as the delegates were elected and prepared to go to the annual Y-Teen convention held in Asheville. There clubs from all over North Carolina met to discuss their problems and find out what other Y-Teens were doing. Ann Renfrow, elected at the convention last year, presided over the meeting. Chosen as president by state delegates for next year was Vivian Miller, making High Point very proud of its two consecutive leaders.

Thanksgiving baskets were carefully prepared for needy families in November. During the Christmas season a vesper program was held with all clubs taking part.

Square dances, Christmas dances, Valentine parties, May Day dances, and informal get-togethers dotted throughout the year, brought with them feelings of gaiety, excitement, and better friendship.

Since it was their last year, the senior Y-Teens were given the Y.W.C.A. on New Year's Eve to watch the old year turn suddenly into a new one with no responsibilities, cares, or sorrows for its first few moments of existence.

Mrs. Nancy Quigley, Y-Teen director, aided the clubs by continually bringing up new ideas for activities. Her contagious enthusiasm was very helpful in attaining goals.

High Stepping Majorettes, Rhythmical Marching Feet

High-stepping majorettes, a fancy-dressed major, and the steady, rhythmical beat of marching brought our high school band on to the field at every football game to present again a crack performance for spectators at half-time.

Capably directed by Mr. Julian Helms, the band organized quickly with Darrell Winslow elected as president. With constant formation drills, they soon were ready to undertake the full year of work ahead of them. In addition to playing at all the home games, they make some trips providing music at several out-of-town games. An invitation to perform at the Shrine Bowl game in Charlotte afforded them excellent opportunity to parade before and with many other bands.

One of the big events of the year was the Balloon Parade before Christmas, sponsored by the Merchants Association. Marching in full dress, our band helped to make this parade a big success.

Also in early December, they presented their formal Christmas concert, selecting musical numbers that were appropriate to the yuletide season. In view of such a good reception, they planned to give several concerts in the spring.

Paralleling last year's record, they received top honors and excellent ratings at the state music contest.

Heralding Hallelujahs

On a cold Saturday night, December 3, 1949, a solemn and expectant crowd watched silently as the curtains of the senior high stage parted slowly revealing a white cross in a blue field formed by 225 students. Soon the director gave his signal, and strains of the overture from Handel's great oratorio, MESSIAH, floated out to the quiet audience. This began the fifth presentation of the great masterpiece by the high school choristers under the direction of Mr. Carl G. N. Cronstedt.

Soloists were Miss Mildred Crowder, soprano; Mrs. Mary Lou Moran, contralto; Dr. C. L. Gray, tenor; and Mr. Emile Serposs baritone; with Miss Mae Kirkman and Miss Dot Lewis, pianists.

The school prides itself on having one of the few choirs in the nation who sing the composition without music. This year in keeping with their custom the choir members added a new chorus, "Lift up Your Heads."

As the performance came to a close with the "Hallelujah Chorus," the spectators left quietly, exhilarated by its power and looking forward to the presentation next year.

A Cappella "Says It With Music"

Choir director, Mr. Carl G. N. Cronstedt gives choristers Van Boyles and Jim Woollen a rigid work-out on some runs during A Cappella rehearsal.

Nervously waiting their turn students rubbed their moist hands together dreading the ordeal of trying out for A Cappella choir. When it was over, the successful songsters decided it was worth it after all.

After director Mr. Carl G. N. Cronstedt had opened each rehearsal with prayer, the group seriously got down to work preparing for their many programs. Always associated with the choristers was their theme, "Beautiful Saviour," and they presented only religious music at their school and church performances.

The most important affair of all was the annual song festival in Greensboro. There Dr. Harry Wilson worked with selected singers from all over the state on blending and singing together. After two days of preparation the group presented to the public a program of solos, quartets, and choruses.

Closing the year's activities the choir had a wiener roast after which they disbanded.

A Viola, a French Horn, and Mozart Make Music

Developing a taste for the classics as well as the semi-classics, acknowledging individual achievement, and providing the community with splendid musical performances summarized the goals of the orchestra as they tuned up to begin another full year of music and concerts.

Under the direction of Miss Virginia Frank, the orchestra placed as its first objective the highly-coveted honor of attending the Music Educator's National Conference which was held at St. Louis, Missouri, in the latter part of February. Students who were chosen to play in the all-state orchestra in Charlotte were eligible to attend this conference. Delegates from High Point won not only an excellent opportunity to achieve local recognition but received a wonderful trip also.

With the help of Miss Frank and Mr. Helms, the orchestra sponsored several dances to replenish the fund which paid the students' expenses to St. Louis. These dances were a big success and afforded entertainment as well as the necessary finances.

aration for the state music contest held this spring in Winston-Salem. All the eligible schools competed here to win highest honors in orchestral arrangements. H.P.H.S. presented the Angelus by Massenet and The Magic Flute by Mozart, for which they received a high rating as in former years.

Applying the Ethics of Good Sportsmanship

Cultivating and upholding character, good sportsmanship, and the promotion of wholesome recreation define the principles of an active girls' athletic association known as the G.A.A. With increasing interest and participation, the members have built this organization into a strong, well-attended club in which sports fans may partake in the various games and tournaments offered.

Early in the year the G.A.A. met and chose for their officers Polly Eady, president; Anne Shipwash, vice-president; Norma Frazier, secretary; and Vici Waggoner, point recorder. These leaders along with Miss Upchurch, adviser, met to plan how to tackle the awaiting activities.

One of the high spots of the competitive season was the basketball game between the faculty and students, the faculty emerging victorious by a 32-20 score. This game was played for the benefit of the G.A.A. fund.

Lettermen from All Sports

Membership in the Monogram Club includes a combination of lettermen from every sport, who hold as their purpose the development of the highest athletic standards on a foundation of true sportsmanship and the creation of a closer bond of fellowship and loyalty between lettermen.

Officers of the club were president, Ken Yarborough; vice-president, Donald Brown; secretary, Buddy Nance; treasurer, Jack Petty; sergeant-at-arms, Harlan Burton; and adviser, Mr. Simeon. These boys led the club in meetings twice a month, at which plans for future projects were discussed.

Their financial mainstay was the sponsoring of the sale of miniature basketball players, candy, and soft drinks at ball games.

Later in the year, initiation of new candidates afforded fun and added a new crop of members to carry on with the next year's work.

New Interest is Shown in Teaching Profession

Constantly gaining members throughout the year was the Future Teachers of America Organization. This unit beginning its first year at senior high, grew continually as more and more students were inspired to learn about the teaching profession.

One of the first items on the club agenda after organization was the election. Billie Ann Slate received the presidency, with Buster Rouse, vice-president; Gladys Hall, secretary; and Polly Carroll, treasurer; assisting her. Helping and advising the group was Miss Mary McInnis.

As time passed the members learned much important information about this profession. Gaining the interest of many and convincing others, the F.T.A. did much to educate the educators-to-be.

Working in and out of school the diligent Hi-Y boys have accomplished commendable goals. These twenty-five boys have given much time to the success of the Y.M.C.A. drive for a new building. Also among their deeds was making up baskets to brighten the Christmases of needy families.

Mr. Edgar Hartley and Mr. A. J. Honeycutt guided the members in their activities. Bob Grady, president, George Bright, vice-president; Jack Petty, secretary-treasurer; and David Brewer, chaplain, held the offices for the group.

Basketball was their favorite sport, and their team traveled to many cities playing other Hi-Y boys all over the state. In high school also they played against other organizations.

With their purpose in mind, the club disbanded for the summer looking forward to next year when they will have a new Y.

"Toward new horizons" was the motto and goal of every member of the Future Homemakers of America. Planning meals and budgets, judging materials, balancing diets, and choosing good varieties of food all came under their homemaking education.

At the fall convention held in Greensboro seven delegates represented High Point. When the state election came around, they campaigned wholeheartedly and returned with Nancy Bright elected state secretary.

The business for their first meeting was to decide on leaders for the club. Chosen were Nancy Holloway, president; Barbara Dillon, vice-president; Elizabeth Peatross, secretary; and Carolyn Honbarrier, treasurer. Advising these housekeepers-to-be was Miss Ingram.

Attending their meetings enthusiastically these girls concentrated on their programs in order to make the future homes of America the best yet.

Literary-Minded Lassies

Fairly new at senior high school this year was the industrious Library Club which was started in the spring of 1949. Despite the recent beginning the unit established itself firmly, and the members were seen every day diligently carrying out their appointed duties.

The purposes of the organization are to increase pupil interest and participation in school library work, to promote better understanding and cooperation in the student use of the library, to attract high-type pupil library assistants, and to arouse interest in the study of librarianship as a profession. Club members assisted students in checking out books and doing research work.

Leaders of the club were president, Frances Mull; vice-president, Nancy Wade; secretary, Nancy Monroe; treasurer, Jerry Lassiter; and reporter, Nancy Samuel. Helping and teaching her library aids was school librarian, Mrs. Nancy Poston. On the second and fourth Mondays of each month the club members were seen scurrying to the library for their meetings.

In the fall there was a district convention at which delegates became acquainted. Older clubs gave advice to newer ones; rough spots were smoothed out; and plans were completed for the state conference.

This spring representatives from all over the state convened to talk over current popular books and to discuss library work as a profession and its many phases.

WHPS One of the First FM Educational Stations

In the spring of 1949 excitement reigned supreme as the small beam of hope that High Point High School might get a non-commercial FM radio station was announced to the student body by Mr. Whitley. For a long time he had worked with the idea, and it was now ready for student sanction. Meeting with overwhelming approval he then set to work.

At long last after endless planning and corresponding the license and permit came from Washington, and the station was named WHPS, one of the first educational FM stations in the nation.

Through the efforts of the P.T.A. financial backing was secured covering the initial expenses of installation. This organization sponsored The Sunshine Twins, a three act comedy with an all high school cast for that purpose.

Student interest and support was strong, and on September 30, 1949, radio station WHPS was inaugurated. At this service representatives from various organizations came to offer their help and congratulations. At 6:30 each night students rushed to their radios, set the dials at 89.3, and listened to their own station broadcast.

Programs consisted of interviews, record request show, skits, student musical talent, all sports not carried by commercial stations, and at Christmas the high school presentation of Messiah. Later each class and club sponsored a broadcast.

Under the direction of the radio council the station met with constant success. Serving on this council were faculty members and students representatives. However, most of the duties and responsibilities of operating the station were performed by students.

Always working for the best productions senior high received much state-wide notice and inspired other schools in radio work. Aside from pure enjoyment the station afforded advanced education for those interested in a radio career.

Modern Latin Classics

Eager to learn beyond the bare requirements were members of the Junior Classical League. These forty-five students working with Mrs. Vera Walden, joined "to hand on the torch of classical civilization in the modern world."

At their meetings the group presented enlightening programs in that field to all Latin classes. They also had as their project making articles symbolic of the Roman World such as miniature war weapons, houses, and important buildings.

Last year ten students made the local league very proud by taking national honor awards in competitive examinations. These language geniuses were Tommie Strother, Ann Allred, Edna Frick, Gayle Walden, Ramelle Hylton, Norma Jean Ansell, Vivian Miller, Martha Jean Burton, Jo Anne Graham, and Jo Anne Danielson. With the approach of June the league brought their activities to a halt with Valete Amici—a favorite Latin expression.

of races all combined,
AND LOVE
of God and all mankind

There was fun, lots of it; and we participated and worked hard to prove that we could enjoy recreation that was clean, wholesome, and free of the petty barriers so often formed in society. There were activities, and we pulled together in fellowship and a united sense of responsibility to make a success of each one, eager to prove that we were not students who held prejudices or a false sense of pride. There were people, and we met them, knew them, and loved them, not asking their origin or past. They were our classmates and we established that rare sincerity that often follows real friendship. There were memories, and in each we found that through the love and brotherhood we received from these contacts, we had learned in truth the value of coming to school.

Student Helpers Render Service in Many Fields

The nucleus of the whole school was the general office. With this distinction the helpers there had to be on the alert every minute, and so they were. Buzzing busily through their daily routine these girls enthusiastically looked up records, kept check on all textbooks, and in short, did what they could to lighten the load for Mrs. "J" and Mrs. Teague.

Faithfully making out and delivering to all classrooms the attendance bulletin each day were Mr. Hunt's girls. Their duties were many ranging from admitting students to school, to excusing them. Handling each task with patience and good cheer this group would not have exchanged their activities in Mr. Hunt's office for anything else in the school.

"I need some stuff on Milne for my term paper and I can't find anything" . . . "Where are some of Browning's poems?" . . . These and many other problems were familiar to the ears of library staff as they patiently checked books in and out, and found Browning's poems that "just aren't in this library" in books boldly marked Poems of Browning. Each of their tasks was met with a smile.

With never a dull moment the girls in Miss Mendenhall's office calmly went about their various jobs. Many quiet days were abruptly interrupted as the door was flung open, and a student staggered in, gasping, "Quick, I'm sick"! Efficiently these patients were led to the clinic and within a few moments they were tucked in bed. Thus the staff competently managed this office.

Boys mastering the technical and engineering mechanics of the booth were selected to work there, three or four each period every day. They were responsible for the full-length historical, educational, and purely-for-enjoyment pictures shown to classes all during the day. These hard-working electricians provided the school with the best in visual education. Mr. Rohde was faculty adviser for this group.

From 8:30 in the morning until 3:30 in the afternoon, the student store workers efficiently carried on the many transactions handled during the day. Fifteen students, advised by Miss Meador, served behind the counter, capably managing the sales of school supplies to classmates in need of materials. With cheerful smiles and alert minds they made the necessary change and collected orders for supplies on request.

Keeping coach's office straight, running numerous errands, and taking all telephone calls, came under the head of duties for coach's girls. Each task was fulfilled with care and precision.

All was dark and quiet as the boys worked industriously, from developer to shortstop, from shortstop to hypo, from hypo to wash, from wash to dryer, and from dryer to Suzie's hands. Then the room was flooded with light, and another job had entered completion.

Paper under lockers that have just been cleaned, dirt in halls that have just been swept and all debris in general was efficiently and cheerfully taken care of by the maids.

"This is a call for Tom or Evans," was announced countless times during the year and each time one or the other patiently stopped what he was doing and answered the calls.

Enticed by the delicious aromas drifting through the halls pupils swarmed to the cafeteria at the first peal of the lunch bell. Well aware that the way to an HPHS student's best self was through his food, Mrs. Meeta Jackson carefully planned the noonday meal each day with the thought of turning out a lunch that tasted just like mom's cooking. The students will agree that she did succeed indeed.

Doing their best to carry out Mrs. Jackson's menu the cooks cautiously measured each ingredient mixing them together with the best possible results. When the cooking was finished, they rushed it to the counter where the lunchers were anxiously awaiting it. There the student helpers were kept busy filling the dishes for the hungry crowd, collecting money at the end of the line, and selling ice cream desserts. The cold lunch line was also student managed for all who preferred a simple and light lunch.

In her office Mrs. Meeta Jackson, school dietitian, balances her books with the aid of adding machine.

Doris Craven, D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award winner, checks over the material in her scrapbook.

Competently cutting stencils, running off tests, inking the machine and keeping it in tip-top shape, and serving well in an important bit of school life is the newly-formed mimeograph staff, advised by Miss Cowan.

Hats off to Doris Craven, 1950 D.A.R. winner. This popular senior, chosen by her classmates, excelled in being the good citizen of the year, and received the award for her outstanding development of physical, moral, and spiritual standards.

Typical of school spirit and campus pulchritude were the five homecoming queens. On the big night, the skies opened up and the five smiling girls were thoroughly drenched. But this did not dampen their spirits, and the queens rode out on the field to receive their flowers amid cheers from similarly soaked spectators.

"Cruising Down the River" With Amateur Talent

Blackfaced dancing girls, crooning voices, comedy actors, rhythmical pianists, and many other phases of student talent thrilled the packed audience at the 1949 Amateur Show.

Preceding the production were weeks of hard work and deep concentration beginning with composing the script. Those were harrowing days for the writers, cutting a scene here, and adding a scene there. When it was finally completed, tryouts were held. Nervously the contestants awaited the results. Winners immediately found their place in the plans and set themselves to make their parts worthy of the rest of the show. The stage crew racked their brains for original ideas, and the publicity committee rushed around the school posting colorful advertisements on the bulletin boards. At last rehearsals smoothed out, and the day of presentation was at hand.

Before a full house the members of the cast performed their chosen acts. The spectators spent an evening of pure enjoyment, swooning with the crooners, beating time with the dancers, roaring with the comedians, and pleading for more encores after the curtains had closed for the last time on "Cruising Down the River."

Witty and Weighty Matters Occur at H.P.H.S.

Ridiculous attire and hilarious skits ably described the high spot of the seniors' year—Senior Day. As "king for a day," they provided everyone with uproaring entertainment and clever programs. Underclassmen were "run through the mill" when it came to obeying the demands of the seniors, but they took it in their stride, anticipating the day when they can return the orders.

Keeping up with modern methods of elections, H.P.H.S. students appeased their curiosity by inspecting the voting machines. A representative demonstrated the mechanics of the machine and then the students went through the regular process of voting, quickly learning and approving of this apparatus. Thus, again, the students of this school receive the best in educational facilities.

SENIOR REVERIES

The door is slowly closing behind me—closing on four years that once seemed like an eternity, but years that passed so quickly they seem more like a dream. Yes, a dream is really what it was—a fleeting recollection of ever-pleasant memories.

The towers where we stood on cold days, the steps on which we exchanged a cheery greeting with a classmate, the corridors down which we walked languidly or sped madly depending on the time left before the final bell—all these are so forceful in my reminiscing. The football games, the proms, that term paper, the final report card were so very important, but of all the memories I perceive, the one that I recall foremost is the one of all the friendships I have made. For long after the former things have passed away the acquaintances I have known will always linger as the best part of my H.P.H.S. memories.

Those standards by which I have directed my life were put into invaluable use through the experiences I gleaned each day. Courage, honesty, purity, industry, brotherhood, and love—each quality in its own way has made me realize that each is vital to make a world of honor. Honor was found in classrooms, in activities, in athletic games, in social functions, and in our administration. Each part was a little world in itself uniting to form an indestructible world—a world based on the principle of honor.

This building—this massive structure is no longer mine. I have left it to those who have promised as I did to leave it greater than it was left to me; but in striving to fulfill my pledge I find that I am the one who has been left greater in mind, body, and character. To this school I am greatly indebted.

This door has closed—closed, but not locked on four years—four of the best years of my life.

APPRECIATION

Another year's activities have been recorded. As we leaf through the pages, we recall those incidents that made the work sometimes a headache, but most often a joy. During school, after school, and at night we plowed together striving to culminate the year's events. In our reminiscing we remember all those who helped to produce this 1950 PEMICAN.

Foremost, we sincerely thank Miss Dorothy Hollar, who devoted so willingly her time, effort, and interests. To her goes much credit with gratitude from both of us. Especially to Mr. Whitley and members of the faculty do we say thank you for the co-operation you have shown us.

We express our appreciation to each member of the staff. Van Boyles, Doris Craven, and Pat Johnson so calmly mounted panels while printing editors Venitia Wilcox and Ann Folger demanded, "Who's next to this boy? What's her address?" Efficient typist Peggy Clark was always ready to type the articles copy editors Tommie Lentz and Mary Lou Dillon and sports editor Jack Willis so expertly wrote. Jean Larcom did the art work and Peppy Stamey, associate editor, answered all calls made of her. Albert Hale and Thomasine Strother filled in with "jack-of-all-trades" ability. Those members of the business staff, Anne Bain, Johnny Bell, Mary Lib Cascy, Betsy Chernault, Becky Dunn, Sam Gibson, Pat Hackney, Anne Hall, Billy Hatley, Becky Johnson, Barbara Steele, Max Williams, Jimmy Woollen, Tommie Lu Young, deserve many thanks from us.

To Andy Pickens, our photographer, on whom depends much of the success of this annual, we offer our appreciation. Clyde Baxter, Dick Boyles, Lester Zimmerman, and Buzz Lowe also deserve much credit for help unselfishly rendered.

Mr. Gordon Brightman, Mr. Jack Clark and Mr. Bob Ihrig of Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company, Mr. Frank Schmenti of Colonna Studios, and Mr. William Oliver Smith of Edwards and Broughton Company offered us excellent advice for which we proffer our thanks.

As we close the cover, we realize the Code of Honor of High Point High School has been put in practice by all who have worked and co-operated with us. To you we sincerely say thank you.

A SHORT COURSE IN SUCCESS

Back in 1923 the twenties were just beginning to roar . . . folks were singing "Barney Google," "Ain't Goin' Rain No Mo'," and "Yes, We Have No Bananas" . . . jazz music was the new sensation and a dance called the Charleston was sweeping the nation.

That same year in Burlington, North Carolina, workmen were clearing a nearby cornfield to build a small textile mill. That was the beginning of Burlington Mills, a company destined to play a leading role in the rise of man-made yarn from obscurity to a place of major importance in textiles.

During the past 25 years Burlington Mills has grown from one small mill at Burlington into one of the world's largest producers of rayon fabrics. It now has 74 plants in six states and four foreign countries employing over 27,000 people. Teamwork between management and skilled, loyal employees made Burlington Mills a textile leader. Teamwork also produced the highest quality textile products at the lowest possible cost.

This successful formula was possible because American free enterprise permitted constant improvements in materials and machinery, development of our human resources, better methods of production, and an incentive for progress and growth. The formula brought better quality fabrics to the consumer. It brought better jobs, higher pay, increased benefits, and excellent working conditions to employees.

And so, 25 years after, Burlington Mills wears a badge of success. Its multitude of products are truly "Woven Into the Life of America."

READ THIS . . . before you decide on your profession

Do you like children?

Do you like to feel you're helping them develop, helping them build their lives and their futures?

Do you like facts and ideas . . . like to absorb them and add to your intellectual stature?

Do you like to feel you're taking part in the progress of your community, your state, your country — and the world?

Do you have imagination? Poise? Patience and understanding? Good health and normal energy?

If you can answer "yes" to these questions, the chances are good that you have a talent for teaching.

During the next few years, 230,000 teachers — over and above those required to fill normal vacancies — will be needed in our schools.

There is a special need for teachers in elementary grades . . . and there will be an even greater need during the years ahead.

Your place may be in this highly honored profession — look into the possibilities today.
